GREAT VICTORY IN PALESTINE

Over 18,000 Prisoners Taken

London, Sept. 22.—British troops in their drive north through Palestine, already have counted 18,000 Turkish prisoners, and have collected 120 guns, according to an official statement given out this evening by the British war office.

COMPLETE SURPRISE

London, Sept. 22.—Further information received concerning the dramatic advance of the British army in Palestine, began during the night of September 19, serves to confirm the completeness of the surprise and the magnitude of the success. A special correspondent at General Allenby's headquarters writes:

"The victory is much more important than the number of prisoners at present reported indicates, for the Turks have been decimated by night and are retreating into the hills as fast as his weary legs will permit. The British are pressing him with splendid energy, delivering overwhelming blows in every attempt to resist."

ANOTHER DEFEAT

"The situation is most promising. It is certain that General Allenby will now deliver another large portion of Palestine from the domination of the Turks, as well as an inflict on the enemy a severe defeat."

"Preparation for this battle entailed a good deal of marching. The troops were always moved by night and remained hidden in the orange and olive groves in the day time. The British mastery of the air prevented enemy observation, and no change in the disposition and the movements of large columns. Troops of all arms were thus concealed skillfully in a country where the marching of men raises huge clouds of dust, and the Turk, too, possesses possessions that command a wide range. But he remained mystified, which is the finest tribute that could be given to the work of the British staff."

"The infantry opened a way for the cavalry to pass through and then there was a wonderful spectacle of long columns of British yeomanry and Australian light horse and the turquoise Indian cavalry moving over a wide expanse of country through the coastal sector of the plain of Sharon to get to the enemy's rear."

SURPRISE ATTACK

One incident showed the nature of the surprise attack made by the British. A staff car with Turkish officers in turning a corner in one town, met a British armored car, and the Turks were captured."

"The roads converging at Nablus and beyond are jammed with retreating transports and fugitive troops, affording easy targets for our airmen, who are raining death upon them with terrible effect, and also are machine gunning the roads and doing great execution. At one spot where the road has a sheer descent, great piles of transports are heaped up. In the southern section east of the Nablus road, Welsh and Italian troops encountered strong Turkish resistance, but achieved a remarkable performance, capturing all their objectives. The units making the attack moved in echelon, one through another as they reached the assigned limits, covering about 10 miles of most difficult country. A great Cane campaign was fought in the operation displayed great gallantry and push."

TURKS OVERWHELMED

With the British army in Palestine, Sept. 20.—While the Turkish army was occupied in strengthening its defensive position, Gen. Allenby's plan for the present offensive were carefully matured. The troops were intensively trained and the ground was closely studied. British airplanes prevented enemy craft from crossing the British lines to observe the preparations for the attack, which took the Turks completely by surprise. The Ottoman right flank, though in formidable positions, was overwhelmed. British forces went through the enemy's wires and captured his first line trenches before he had time to lay down a barrage. Of the remaining works, some were most powerfully organized, but they were speedily overcome by the dash and gallantry of the British and Indian troops."

In one sector an entire Turkish regiment with its camp and baggage was captured with significant loss. Within a few minutes after the offensive was launched the Turkish troops were streaming outward in the direction of Tulkarm. The British air supremacy was so complete that not one German machine was able to show itself. British aviators harassed the enemy by a series of bombing raids, while camps, troops and transports were effectively machine gunned by low-flying airplanes. The German aerodromes at the same time were dominated by the British machines which dropped bombs on an enemy plane that attempted to rise. The airman also assisted the infantry to advance by means of smoke screens, the nightfliers bombed the Turkish army headquarters effectively. In

The following letter was received from Rev. Fulton, giving a short account of his journey across to Ireland and may be interesting to his many friends:

Drumna, Millage, Donaghadee, Ireland, August 22nd, 1918.
Dear Mr. Wood.—I arrived at the above address some little time ago, in good health and good spirits, after an uneventful voyage. I had a splendid sailing across going home with a transport containing about 6,000 American soldiers, and of course quite a number of passengers were on board. We had an escort all the way. I don't think the submarine would have dared to face us. Leaving this morning we had an escort for a day of six destroyers and one battle cruiser, the latter came with us till within two days of landing, then they were sent back by destroyer. From dear old England. What a sight! Britannia rules the waves—mighty England—master of the seas.

Can you afford to give too much credit to the army and too little to the brave men who day and night are traversing the seas, making it possible for old England to live. We are proud these days that our position on the western front is very much better, that the unspeakable Hun is being driven back to his own corner. His hope of victory is gone. Well, I am having a good holiday, every place looks fine. Passing through from Liverpool to Holyhead in the morning, the scenery was very beautiful. Ireland is similar. If the voluntary system of enlistment does as well in the south as it is doing in the north, the war is over. I don't need a word, but that is doubtful. I would like very much to see Ireland as a whole so her part in this war. Remember me to all friends. Yours sincerely,

JOS. FULTON.
Geo. Quinton and Jack Oldford both unloaded new separators last week.

MILITARY NOTES

W. A. McIlwraith was reported wounded in Monday's list. He joined up with the 87th and transferred to the machine gun section. He has seen a good deal of service, and his letters in this paper have been read with a good deal of interest by the general public.

Two more stalwart sons of the Empire left yesterday for the coast, namely Douglas McMillan and William Heath, where they will join up with the Royal Naval Canadian Volunteer Reserve. They have been engaged on C.P.R. work, the former as a freeman and the latter in the Red Deer shops. A large number of friends wish them good luck.

The name of O.C. Mitter, of Eckville, appeared in the casualty list as wounded on Wednesday last.

S. Whitty, formerly of Red Deer, partner at Toronto, was visiting his old partner, Mr. Cotton, last week.

WILL CLOTHE AND REFIT 2,000,000 SOLDIERS FOR U.S.

ENGLAND HAS UNDERTAKEN
THIS TASK—$4,000,000 WARD
OF CLOTH NEEDS.

London, Sept. 20.—The self-sacrifice of Americans in skipping their own food supplies in order to feed the allies is being matched to some extent by England's undertaking to refit and clothe 2,000,000 American soldiers. This will mean a great shortage of cloth for the civilian population.

Eight million yards of cloth will be required for the uniforms of the Americans, a record breaking order. Demands of the British and French armies will also have to be met. No increase in the price of the standard suits for civilians is looked for.

Every effort will be made according to the authorities to prevent profiteering in cloth of all kinds, which is to be made under permit. All stocks on hand will have to be accounted for. Two months ago there was enough cloth available to make 750,000 men's suits to measure, at about $22 each.

Washington, Sept. 19.—How the iron hand of the German general staff was extended into Finland, through the German-Finnish pact, is disclosed in a new book, "The German Intelligence Service," which is being published by the Government.

The book is a purely co-operative company, and there being no stockholders, there are also no profits. The profits are to be used for the benefit of the German Intelligence Service. Mrs. Cottingham left for Calgary on Saturday last, after spending a few weeks with friends in Red Deer.

Mrs. Eva Cox, who has taken up the nursing profession is home for a short time visiting friends.

A fire at the residence of A. E. Townsend, Parkville, Friday night, did the best damage to the extent of $700: $300 on furniture and $400 on real estate. The furniture was not insured. The fire was from an unknown origin. Mrs. Townsend is visiting friends in the east. Mr. Smith was out for a walk and happened to notice the blaze, otherwise the building and contents would have been destroyed.

Leut. Tompkins, officer commanding the recruiting station for the Siberian expeditionary force at Edmonton, will be in Red Deer on Saturday next, Sept. 28. Any one wishing to join his force may see the Lieutenant at one of the hotels on that day.

The anniversary of the Presbyterian Church, always draws a good crowd, and this year it will be as popular as ever. Remember the date, Monday next, Sept. 30.

Harvest thanksgiving service will be held in the Anglican Church at 3 p.m. on Sunday week October 6th. No service next Sunday.

On a grave I cannot see! Where sleeping without dreaming, Lies the one so dear to me.

A light is over our household gone, A voice we loved is still! A place is vacant in our home That never can be filled.

Long years may pass, yet still we'll miss him! Some may think the wound will heal, 'Tis only God who knows the sorrow That lies beneath our hearts concealed.

FRENCH CONTINUE TO ADVANCE

British Capture Trenches

With the French Army in France, Sept. 22.—General Debeny's troops continued to advance toward the Lafere road, south of St. Quentin today. They reached Lanbay, the Lemoulin farms and the Venduill forest which is only 1,000 yards from the road and about a mile from the Oise River.

As the French draw nearer the Hindenburg line, around St. Quentin, the Germans multiply their efforts to keep them from St. North of the Somme they appear to be organizing a defensive system on the heights which run parallel to the Hindenburg positions from east of Holnon to Hill 123, south of Holnon and thence through the village of Venduill, to the heights of the Venduill forest, which is only 1,000 yards from the road and about a mile from the Oise River.

LETTERS FROM THE FRONT

Fred Fisher writes to his parents the following interesting letter:

Somehow in France,

August 17, 1918.

My dear Mother and Father—

I am well and not too worried about me as I am now two or three hundred miles from the trenches, thank God. It is in the hours of the morning and I am sitting in the office of a hospital with my watch in front of me and a chart by it indicating what the medical man to give and the number of the bed the patient is in who is to receive it, and every half hour I take a walk through the long ward with the white beds and its pale faced patients and see if everything is all right. I go to work at 3 p.m. and come off at 7 a.m. It is a very long lousy night, but sometimes I get out its excitement. I am living in the mountains and it is very pretty with its vineyards and its old historic buildings, but I did enjoy myself in Paris for a few weeks. It is truly a gay city, and I liked it better than either London or Glasgow, Edinburgh or Dublin, Ireland, and I hope to see it again. I do not like the place where I am buried in I will have him removed after the war if I live to get there. I am not a very happy man, but I have the town and graveyard disfigured and scared out of all reason, compared to when I saw it first in 1917.

As you know I saw it after the advance of old Fritz in the early part of 1918, and his damnable shells have made the place a sight. I have not seen Arthur since June last, and he is two months ago, but I am almost sure this war has not done him or me any good, but we must be thankful to be alive, for I tell you I have nearly gone west two or three times, but I have seen so much death that I have got to look upon it as a very common thing, and do not think of it in the least as I used to. As you know while up in the trenches my nerves got so bad that I could not be trusted with a stretcher case that was under fire, and lost my nerve. At I was in in a previous letter, I, and fourteen more men were blown down a long staircase into a dugout, and I was dead in both my arms and I could hear a shell till it was close to me, and so save me a rather queer feeling, but you would have to be under shell fire to understand what I mean.

I think I am honest in saying it was not fear, for prior to being blown down the dugout I never had the same experience, but I tell you, I thank God I am out of the trenches.

You must not worry about Arthur, for as you know, he is not in the trenches but is in support, always with the caissons. But when I was there I had to go and pick up wounded men in the field with nothing but a red cross on my arm for protection, and I tell you it was no easy either.

But you must not think it is all hard luck in the army for I am going to

Nico and Monte Carlo and Maracani on the Mediterranean sea for a couple of weeks leave, and the army will give me 500 francs (100 dollars) to spend on the trip. Of course the 500 francs is my own money, but still

I got it out of my pay, and that is a trip I would hardly get in civil life.

It is not, I had a letter from Wert a few days ago and some photos from

Jean and I take it that you are fairly comfortable. I do hope that we are pared to see each other again.

Won't it be a happy day when the war is over. Oh, I will be so glad.

I tell you I would not have known

Jean if there had been no name on the photos and I don't expect I shall even know my own children when I get home, if I ever do. It may sound strange to you, but I am not worrying about it. I do not get home again, but of course I hope I will. I hope you will drop me a few lines and tell me how you are getting on and how you are. With fondest love, from your son,

FRED.

La Belle France,

August 24, 1918

To the Editor, Red Deer News.

Dear Sir—As one of the old town boys, I presumed you would hardly object to my writing you the following few lines, as this is my first letter to one of the town's worthy citizens.

I left the city in August, 1915, came across to Rural England the following month, and after a short stay in that delightful country I was dispatched 'over here,' and have remained here intact ever since, with only one break when invalided to hospital at the base, a matter of a few weeks ago. Well, I am not going to 'sing my own song,' for the simple reason,

'everybody's doing it.' I will therefore, parade myself an exception; I take it for granted, I am a very exceptional individual when sized: as one of our good illustrious citizens will admit. Those who know me intimately, of course. Nevertheless, what little I have accomplished is hardly in comparison to what others have done, therefore I will 'hold my prate.' 'Tis very little I see of your valuable paper, or, in fact, any other of the provincial papers, so you may come to the conclusion I do not get much news from that source. Of course I occasionally, but very rarely receive a few letters from a few

'peace by negotiation' friend (I refer to Lord Lansdowne) thinks of the present situation. Surely he will be bewailing his lot, to say nothing of his private 'intimate' interests. What a fool's paradise he must be living in, if such are his views; the Allies will certainly negotiate, only in a different way; to wit, with steel and iron rations! As soon as the German octopus has his tentacles severed, he'll be safe to deal with; then, but not before.

I hardly know whether there are any pessimists at home or not; there are few, if any, in the Canadian army; however, if there are any in the home-land, the present change of affairs should alter materially their once depressed views. A good many folk believe the end is on the horizon; unfortunately they are deluded in every sense of the word. The road is still long, yet our goal is assured. A peace now would leave Germany quite a powerful nation, while the consequence that a large force would have to be maintained here. On the other hand, should Germany accede to our terms and join a 'league of nations,' the road to a permanent peace would be paved. As this is very unlikely, there is but one course to adopt, 'go it' to the bitter end.

We are experiencing glorious weather for the present campaign, if anything a trifle too hot; better than the rainy season of the past. I have, like the calf, come to the end of my tether. May I mention in closing—the boys are all looking in the pink. Some of the Canadian editors who were out here to see us, to corroborate my statement. They'd wrestle with Old Nick himself, with our doubt as to the outcome. The 'Gung Boys' (members of my dug-out) are 'gassing' and arguing on 'after the war' problems, occasionally soliciting my opinion, so if many mistakes are made herein, be kind enough to overlook the same. At the best of times I am not much of a hand at correspondence. I must now adjourn, the hour being exactly 8.45 p.m., time to hit the blanket if forty winks is to be considered. Trusting I have not taken up your valuable time by writing this, I'll conclude with best regards to you and other citizens of Red Deer. Gunner H. F. Harcourt, 46423, 1st Canadian Siege Battery, R.E.F., would be pleased to receive a 'note' from you at your convenience, to let me know whether you are in receipt of this letter. Believe me in all sincerity to be—Most respectfully yours,

H. F. HARCOURT.

HUN NEWSPAPER'S TRIBUTE TO TANKS.

Amsterdam, Sept. 19.—The Frankfort Zeitung's correspondent telegraphs the following under date of September 16:

"The Franco-American attack at St. Mihiel is now seen to have been a carefully planned underling of considerable magnitude. The number of attacking enemy divisions is not yet known, but we know that our losses are probably due to the extensive use by the enemy of tanks. More than 1,000 armored cars of all sizes participated.

I wonder, by the way, what our poor

OLD SUBTERRUGES IN AUSTRIAN NOTE.

Rome, Sept. 18.—In a long article which is taken as reflecting the views of vatican officials if not the pope himself, the Corriere d'Italia, the semi-official organ of the vatican, declares that Austria should be more explicit in her declarations.

"The old subtugues that the note undoubtedly carries shows the desperate need of peace," the article says. "There is no need for secret conferences when President Wilson and others already have set forth the Allied conditions. There is no doubt that the note was inspired by Berlin. With the cannon of Hindenburg unsuccessful, we will now see a return to the subtugues of diplomacy. The note is equivalent to a confession of military weakness. It is a sign that the fatal hour has begun for them when they must submit to the Allied peace." "If in the year of 1918 they offered peace, now they ask it," the article continues.

"But in what spirit do they ask peace?"

Soldiers' Sore Feet.

This is one of the many ailments for which Zam-Buk is needed at the front. It soothes tired, aching feet, heals blisters and cures "trench foot." Regular applications of this salve keep the feet in perfect condition.

Pte. Frank Gaskin, of the 4th Canadian Infantry, writing from France, says: "After heavy marching I find nothing so good as Zam-Buk for sore and aching feet."

Your soldier friends need Zam-Buk also for cuts, burns, blisters, scratches, and sores of all kinds. Be sure to put some in your next parcel. All dealers or Zam-Buk Co., Toronto. 50c box, 4 for $1.25.

EVERGREEN

A very successful basket social and dance was held in the Knowledge School, Sept. 14. The sum of $70.00 was realized. The prices of the baskets ranged from $1.50 to $5.50. The beautiful display of baskets showed the interest the ladies took in the affair. The above amount was forwarded to Winnipeg Sept. 16. The proceeds of the sale go to the Czechoslovak soldiers fighting in Siberia without pay.

The Bohemian people of this country are very patriotic towards the maintenance of their soldiers who are doing such noble fighting in Siberia for the freedom of their little country.

We notice in the Blainmore paper where their association raised funds a short time ago amounting to one thousand dollars for the same purpose.

The report a week ago stating that three hundred of the Czechoslovak soldiers were captured on the Siberian front by the Bolsheviks and put to death, is contradicted in the Bohemian paper by Prof. Thomas G. Masaryk, the leader of the Czechoslovak. He states that this is an impossibility as all of those soldiers realize that it is certain death to be captured by the enemy, and each soldier carries a small bomb which he uses in his last defense. He throws the bomb, which kills him and the person or persons trying to capture him.

FRUIT AFFECTED BY RINGS SHOULD NOT BE DESTROYED

The fruit that had been put in jars affected by the phenol on the rubber rings should not be destroyed, according to Dr. Mahood, who has issued instructions for the conserving of this produce. The phenol, or carbolic acid is in the composition that is used to make the rings and does not warrant any suspicion that it was used purposely. These rings are made by a firm in the United States, according to S. G. Freeze, who is present at the board of health meeting yesterday.

The following rules were given by Dr. Mahood for the treatment of the trouble:

1. New rings must be purchased. These are to be thoroughly sterilized by boiling in a solution of one teaspoonful of baking soda to a pint of water for ten minutes. If the phenol is present in small quantities it is easily detected in the odor given off during boiling.

2. Fruit suspected of contamination from the old rings is then opened the old rings removed, the lip and corners of the jar carefully wiped with a clean cloth and a new ring put in place of the old one. The fruit must then be sterilized.

3. The fruit can then be stored as before. As it is opened for use from time to time jars may only be found to have absorbed the taste from old rings. These may be discarded.

BRITISH EVACUATE BAKU

London, Sept. 19.—Baku, in Transcaucasia, has been evacuated by the British, who have withdrawn their forces to North Persia. The evacuation was made necessary, it is stated, because of the lack of steadiness on the part of the Armenian troops when they were attacked by the Turks during August.

WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 25, 1918

"The Alberta (Calgary) cannot understand why the government was not content to permit a man with the principles and ideas and unquestioned ability of Mr. Galt to be unopposed, it could rest satisfied that he would support progressive legislation, and that when he opposed any measure that it would be well to give it further consideration."

THE RED DEER ELECTION

On Thursday last the Calgary Albertan said:

The Red Deer News suspects that government officials are now organizing the electors and working for the government candidate in the election that will soon be held in Red Deer. The Albertan doubts it. If the Red Deer News can find a government official who is doing any work in the provincial election campaign that is under way, let it give name, date, text and all other information, and it will give a great service not only to the country but to its own candidate. The premier has declared plainly enough that while he is premier, officials paid by the general public will take no part in elections. The Albertan believes that he will carry out that promise, and carry it out to the letter.

The premier would set a good precedent if he let it be known in the campaign in that riding that he placed his case before the electors and made his statement, and then let it for the Red Deer people to decide, keep out his spellbinders and orators and camp followers, who usually tramp about at election time. It is very unlikely that the opposition will have any outside help of any kind, and doubtless would agree to a plan of having the premier present his case at a few points and then restrict the contest to Red Deer residents.

In the humor that the people are in at the present time, nothing would discredit the government more and shake the confidence of the people in the government as much as an election scandal. It must not be.

The lamb like innocence of the Albertan is refreshing.

To begin with we never said anything about government officials organizing this election, and we are pleased to see the Albertan frowns down that sort of thing. Further, we are glad to know the Premier likewise will not stand for it. What we said was that a still blind was going on to make the machine candidate secure in his seat. Further, as the Albertan is so dead set against any scandal in this election, does it not think it a scandal that Red Deer riding has been unrepresented in the Legislature these many months? Such a state of affairs would not be tolerated in other provinces. We hope our esteemed Canadian contemporary will get up on its hind feet some more and denounce the dark lantern brigade methods of electing a candidate.

NO DANGER

In answer to those who prophesy a sort of mob rule by return of soldiers after the war, the Toronto News recently published the following editorial under the heading, "No Cause for Apprehension."

"There is no danger. The men who represent Canada overseas are not the sort that degenerate into a brutal and rapacious soldiery," so often mentioned by the old historians. They are the most part young men of intelligence and good breeding, the products of Canadian homes and Canadian schools. Soldiers who have learned discipline without unlearning their natural initiative are of too high a mental type to take pattern from the Russian moujik and tear civilization to rags.

"Consider the soldiers who have already returned. The proportion among them of 'strong-arm men' who demonstrate with stones and staves is almost negligible. There are thousands in civil life. Their bearing is as courteous, their manner as quiet as that of any man who never saw a battlefield. They wear the service badge with pride. Of right they count it as a distinction. They are impatient at a few noisy comrades who think a whoop is an argument and a crutch head the end of a discussion. These are the backbone of the Veterans' Association, the strength of the army and the cream of Canadian manhood. Of them which will not be disappointed, Canada will owe its future pre-eminence to these men who have seen great things and learned the meaning of duty."

The recent issue by the Grand Trunk Railway Co. of $3,000,000 three year 6% notes in London at 99 has caused much favorable comment in financial and railway circles. This flotation shows the strength of the company and the credit it enjoys in the greatest financial markets of the world, and also shows that it does not require to depend upon government or any other assistance to meet its obligations. The rate at which this issue has been placed is a much more favorable one than has been obtained for any other railway securities sold in Canada or the United States for some time. From sources that can be depended upon it is learned that the Company is in excellent condition financially. It has met all its obligations in the past and with its strong London and New York banking connections, and its excellent traffic showings at present, and its prospects for the future, it holds one of the highest places in the sound corporations of the Dominion.

BRITISH VICTORY IN PALESTINE

TURKS FROM THE RIVER JORDAN EASTWARD ARE PUT TO FLIGHT BY MIGHTY BLOWS
ALLIES HAVE STRUCK

London, Sept. 20.—The Holy Land is aflame under the impetus of a mighty stroke by the British, French, and friendly Arab forces, and the Turks from the Jordan river eastward to the Mediterranean seem to be in rout.

Added to their already heavy losses in ground, men killed, wounded or made prisoner, and stores captured in Belgium, France, Italy and the Balkans, the Teutonic allies, judging from first reports of the hostilities begun against the Ottoman in Palestine, are in further extremely hard usage. In less than a day, a General Allenby's British forces aided by French troops and natives under the flag of the King of the Hejaz, struck the Turkish line over the front of sixteen miles and penetrated it to a depth of 12 miles, taking more than 3,000 Turkish prisoners and over-running the entire hostile defensive system. Railways and highway junction points were captured, and strong forces of cavalry at last accounts were well in advance of the attacking troops, threatening to carry out a turning movement against the fleeing Turks which might prove disastrous to them. Meanwhile along the shores of the Mediterranean, naval units were clearing the coastal roads of the enemy by their gunfire.

London, Sept. 20.—The text of the official communication dealing with the operations in Palestine, as issued by the war office tonight follows: "During the night of September 19 our troops commenced a series of attacks on the front between the Jordan and the sea. East of the Jerusalem Nablus road, British and Indian troops advanced successfully and intercepted the Turkish road communications leading southeast from Nablus.

DEFENSIVE SYSTEM OVERLUN.

"At 4.30 a.m. of the 19th, the main attack in which French troops participated was launched after a sharp bombardment between Ramat and the coast. Our infantry made rapid progress, overrunning the entire hostile defensive system on this front and by 8 a.m. penetrating to a depth of five miles before swinging eastward.

"The latest available reports indicate that the Turkish railway junction was occupied by our infantry in the course of the afternoon, while a brigade of Australian light horse reached the main Pulkerna Mesadiah railway and the road in the vicinity of Aswad cutting off large bodies of retreating enemy with their guns and transport.

"Meanwhile a strong cavalry force of British, Indian, and Australian troops moving northward on the coastal plain and seized the road junction at Hadda, descended from the Turkish railway junction at Berna, several railway lines leading north, south and westward.

"Naval units co-operating with our advanced troops in clearing the roads with their gunfire."

WAR OF WORLD CONQUEST WAS PLANNED BY HUN

PREPARATIONS WELL ADVANCED BEFORE ASSASSINATION OF
AUSTRIAN HEIR-APPARENT

Washington, Sept. 20.—Another convincing link in the proof that Germany was preparing to start a world war conquest at least six weeks before the assassination of the Austrian heir apparent at Sarajevo, concludes the amazing series of disclosures which the American naval intelligence has given to the public through secret documents brought out of Russia. Two authentic documents are included in the final chapter of the story which began a week ago with evidence removing any doubt that we have had to this point. The Russian Bolshevik government, headed by Lenin and Trotsky, is a tool of the Imperial German government. One of these is an original circular from the German general staff dated June 9, 1914, directing that all industrial concerns be notified to open their secret instructions for industrial mobilization. Another dated November 20, 1914, is from the German naval general staff and reveals that four months after hostilities began in Europe "destruction agencies" were ordered to Canada and the United States to hire anarchists and criminals for the bomb plots and work of terror which finally played a large part in drawing the United States into the war.

In addition to this authenticated evidence, Edgar Sisson, who obtained the papers from the committees on the Russian side, has obtained a remarkable group of circulars put in Russian text at Petrograd last winter purporting to be copies of documents taken from the archives of the counter-espionage bureau of the Kerensky government, supplemented by some from the files of the same bureau before the fall of the czar. Some of this matter has been published previously in France and in this country.

PLANNED FINANCIAL AGENCIES
The circulars of German arrangements six months before the outbreak of the war for the establishment of the financial agencies in bordering neutral countries, which later furnished the money for the operations of the Bolsheviks, of orders of German banks to establish close and secret relations with American and Russian banks, of the launching of revolutionary propaganda against the czar's government in Russia as early as November, 1914, and of instructions to German diplomats in all neutral countries to co-operate with agencies set up in these countries for stirring up social unrest, strikes and sentiment against war within the enemy states.

The name of Scheidemann, the German Socialist leader, already mentioned as involved in the dealings of the German government with the Bolsheviks, appears attached to one of the unauthenticated documents. It is a note announcing that one hundred and fifty thousand kroners have been placed to the credit of a Russian newspaper and asked that Vorwarts, the name of Scheidemann's organ at Berlin, be advised of what appeared in that subsidized journal.

PROMISED SEPARATE PEACE.
An amendment to the concluding statement in what purports to be a transcript of a unique telegraphic conversation between Cichotzerin, Bolshevik foreign minister at Petrograd and Trotsky at Bratslavsk, last February, a few days before Trotsky made his notorious "no peace no war" play. Cichotzerin is quoted as promising a separate peace by which Russia would not cause a rupture with the Allies and saying that England and America are "playing up to us separately."

BRITISH CAPTURE LAMPIRE AFTER A HARD BATTLE

SCOTTISH TROOPS TAKE VIL-LAGE OF MOEUVRES

London, Sept. 20.—Scottish troops Friday morning finally overcame the resistance of the Germans still in the village of Moevres, west of Cambrai, where there had been such violent fighting recently and completely captured the village, according to Field Marshal Haig's communication tonight.

British front in France, Sept. 20.—Lampire was captured by the British after a hard battle. The enemy took the south of Villers-Guislain contest of the advance merely, and the losses to the defending forces there were tremendous. The British got through Valenciennes, west of Villers-Guislain, without much trouble, but quickly ran into a German counter-attack. The Germans fought a desperate battle and a hand-to-hand struggle ensued with rifle and bayonet. The Germans were completely smashed, and the ground was strewn with their dead. A further British advance was assisted by a novel innovation in the way of machine gun barrages. Two companies of machine gunners were brought up and concentrated. Their guns opened a terrific barrage, during which one of them pumped 25,000 rounds of ammunition into the German defenses. The enemy was absolutely overwhelmed. Those upon whom it swept could neither retreat nor advance, and large numbers surrendered. But the casualties were great. In one place, for example, 300 dead later were found.

In Gueuche wood the Germans had four British tanks which they had previously captured. These tanks were used as machine gun fortresses, and held out for hours before taken. Late in the afternoon, the Germans opened a heavy attack between Havincourt and Villers-Guislain, with the sixth German division. This assault was directed not only at the British, who were engaged in yesterday's operation, but against positions a little further to the north which the British had taken in the past few days. The attack succeeded in rolling the British back somewhat on the left, but this ground was quickly regained in a counter-move, and the Germans were everywhere repulsed with heavy losses.

Two British armies had an unusual success last night in the battle zone. Their planes crashed down in German territory, 15 miles behind the St. Quentin canal. The men were not killed, and were tramped back to their own lines, making their way successfully through great numbers of German troops and across the Hindenburg line.

BRITISH THIRD AND FOURTH ARMIES HAD AN EASY DAY

With the British army in France, Sept. 20.—Beside local fighting, the British third and fourth armies north-west of St. Quentin have not been engaged today. In the local operations their new front has been further improved at several points.

The Germans are holding strong machine gun detachments in the large number of small farms, copes and sunken roads in this vicinity, but a number of these have been already cleared.

In front of St. Quentin there were clashes between the opposing infantry and the British gained some ground east of Holnon village. Smoke bombs played an important part in the taking of the fortified quarries of the Hindenburg line, northwest of St. Quentin. The quarries, covering an area more than a mile deep and two miles in width, have been utilized by divisions of the Germans second army for the construction of an "underground Gibraltar."

REGIMENTAL DUKE TAKEN

Prussian Guards, including a regimental duke, have been captured. One of the officers said he had been freely made that the British would never be able to capture the quarries. While the quarries remained in the hands of the Germans the enemy expected with his supplies of ammunition and machine guns to be able to

Kitchener was right

when he said—

"Either the Civilian population must go short of many things to which it is accustomed in times of peace or our armies must go short of munitions and other things indispensable to them."

NOW, the only way we can possibly live up to that obligation is by going without in order that our soldiers may have. For the money we waste is not money at all—it is equipment, clothing, shot and shell that are urgently needed in France.

By denying ourselves, therefore, we enable Canada to procure to the fullest extent the materials and labor which she and our Allies need for the successful prosecution of the war.

What happens when we fail to save?

A pull on labor by the Government in one direction and a pull on labor by the people in the opposite

For the sake of your country and the boys "over there," spend cautiously. Think of what Lord Kitchener has said, and ask yourself first, "Is this something I really need or can I do without it?"

THE NEWS' WEEKLY SERMON

"He that is wise, winneth souls."— Psalm XI: 30.

"No one who ever got saved at the Chauteau was a statement recently made by one of our professors in evangelistic effort. Our interest in the matter is not in the religious or educational value of an institution that has already won its way into Western Canada, but rather in the view of our evangelistic interest such an utterance. "My business," said a very efficient Sunday school leader of international repute, "is to sell souls, I sell real estate to pay expenses."

In both these instances it is evident that soul-winning is regarded as a form of business, and that the place the business of everyday living. Obviously it, however, in the second case the manner of conducting one's business, the principles of honesty and fair dealing would have a very great deal to do with the efficiency of the soul winning.

In the business of saving souls restricted to special forms of evangelistic agency, an enterprise to be engaged in only by workers specially trained for the task, or in religion more vitally and intimately related to the whole life of man than the ideas just expressed would lead us to think.
The late Donald Hankey, author of a very original and suggestive series of articles "The Students in arms," has stated that religion is the widening of a man's horizon to include God." Dr. Lyman Abbott has defined religion as the life of God in the soul of man. These statements cannot be regarded in any sense as an adequate definition of religion, but they have this merit, that without attempting to "fathom the eternal thought," they indicate the place religion has in relating the life of man to God.

Without doubt, the soul's awakening, the new birth, conversion, regeneration, or whatever term we may use to describe the quickening of man's spiritual nature is an instan-taneous experience, a moment when the spirits true endowments stand out clearly, and in the light of life we see the God of Love. But this experience after all is not so much a creation as it is a discovery of the powers that man possesses and the place he holds in the thoughts and purpose of God. "In Him we live, move, and have our being." Our whole life, with all our varied interests and activities, is related to God. "From Him, through
Him and unto Him are all things."

Evidently then, while it is true that in a certain sense, our spiritual life abides in mystery, it is equally true that man possesses and the place he holds in the thoughts and purpose of God. "In Him we live, move, and
have our being." Our whole life, with all our varied interests and activities,
is related to God. "From Him, through
Him and unto Him are all things."

Today "Prophet eyes may see the glory, gazing slowly on the shade, The peoples all are, and are, and are,
In choral Halleluia to the Maker. It is finished, man is made."

In the working out of this world order, the statement of the old Hebrew philosopher shall have a deeper significance. "The wise are the leaders of men."

Alien Enemy Language
Newspapers in Canada
Fighting for ExistenceGREAT WAR VETERANS' EFFORT TO BAR GERMAN PAPERS FROM MAILS BEARS FRUIT—EDITORS
PETITION SIR ROBERT BORDEN ASKING THEY BE NOT SUPPRESSED

Winnipeg, Sept. 17.—Propaganda of the Great War Veterans' Association all over the west against newspapers or magazines in alien enemy language being given facilities of the mail to bearing fruit. The courier of Top ina, one of the weeklies of largest circulation, the organ of the German-Canadian bond, is now being printed in English. The editor of similar publications in Winnipeg are publishing what they term "lessons in English."

In the meantime the various branches of the Veterans, Sons of England and the British Citizenship League are adopting resolutions to the Dominion government requesting that these alien enemy journals be proscribed for the period of the war.

There are twenty such organs of the alien enemy press published in Manitoba and they met in conference in Winnipeg the other day with Sir Herbert Ames, who was here to receive their assurance of support for the Victory Loan campaign. There was no hesitancy on the part of a single editor.

MEMORIALIZE BORDEN

Later when the resolution of the Winnipeg veterans condemning the alien enemy papers and urging Ottawa to interfere was published, these alien enemy paper editors conferred and adopted a memorial to Sir Robert Borden urging reasons why they should not be suppressed or denied the use of the mails.

The veterans' propaganda copied exactly the language of the American Defence Society's letter to the Washington government, which Senator Lodge champions, that "The use of the mails shall not be permitted to any newspaper, magazine or periodical circular or pamphlet which is printed in whole or in part in the German language."

The petition to Premier Borden ingeniously worded. It recites as the chief basis, which is undeniably true, that the Dominion government campaign just closed in Manitoba that the alien enemy papers did print advertisements, paid for on a cash basis by Bruce Campbell, the official press representative of the Red Cross, but beyond this they were not guilty of any very considerable enthusiasm for this patriotic work. The open hostility of the alien enemy to this campaign was so marked this spring that Thomas Hay, M.P. for Selkirk, D. A. Ross, M.P. for Springfield, where many thousands of this class reside, travelled over their constituencies and addressed public meetings for this patriotic work. The open hostility of the alien enemy to this

campaign was so marked this spring that they must contribute to the Red Cross and show the Canadian people that they were in sympathy with the aims of their adopted country.

FRANKLY WARNED

They were just as frankly warned that the disengagement of the elections act could be and would be followed with other restrictions if they failed to do their duty at this time. Other speakers visited their colonies in Manitoba and told them plainly to "get busy," and this is the thing these alien editors are boasting of as a reason why their papers should continue to be given the liberty of the mails.

Here is one illustration of the contradictions which appear among the alien enemy people. In the German settlement of Komarno, near Winnipeg, a Red Cross organization was formed, after the pointed advice of a number of patriotic Anglo-Saxons, and a very considerable sum was donated to the cause. That was a month ago, but two weeks ago the authorities heard reports of slackness from the military being frequently seen in that neighborhood, protected by the aliens.

A secret service man went there and he was driven over the district in an automobile owned by the leading German storekeeper of Komarno.
That night the car was destroyed—knocked to pieces with stones and clubs by persons unknown, but who obviously suspected the purpose of the secret service man which it had carried around.

DISTRICT RAIDED

So aggravating did these people become that a regular expedition was organized by the military police, and the district raided. Some twenty evidences of the military act were captured and many rifles and other guns were brought in. The inhabitants displayed their hostility in every possible manner short of shooting at the officers. They were refused food and harassed in every possible way.
There is no doubt the alien enemy

THE REVOLT
Against Bound Party Methods

The late Joseph Cowen, formerly M.P. for Newcastle-on-Tyne, England:

"I put first Liberal principles. They put first the Liberal party. I care more for measures. They care more for men. In this lies all the quarrel.

Party is simply a means to an end. It is not the end.
Leaders are all very well in their place, but none of them are infallible, and I will surrender my judgment in matters of principle to no man, however powerful, and to no body of men, however numerous."

M. Ostrogorski, in "Democracy and the Organization of Political Parties":

"Formalism will never lose its rights: it is inevitable in every body of men, the great majority of whom are naturally incapable of discriminating and judging, and naturally accept an external rule for their conduct, follow a conventional token, look to the sign or the label. This is especially the case in the life of a democracy, owing to the great number of citizens. It is not a question of doing away with formalism, but of diminishing its influence and increasing that of judgment, of which the world will never have enough. Sentiment will always act on the majority of mortals with more force than will reason, but it is desirable to lessen the power of blind impulses and to let rational motives have a greater share in the conduct of the citizens. . . . The average elector will always fall into line, but it is material that he should do so in a less passive, less servile, way, that he should look as often as possible where he is going, that those whom he follows should not be so sure of his automatic adhesion as to lead him as they please."

Permanent parties, Mr. Ostrogorski says, are governed by the pursuit of power, they presume on having a lien over the intellects and consciences of the electors, who are "stricken by political formalism in the independence of their thought, in the energy of their will, and in the autonomy of the individual conscience."

The party system, he continues, is artificial, irrational, and out of date. The life of the party is one long school of servile submission, . . . of intimidation. . . . Instead of grouping men in accordance with the issues, the issues are adapted to fixed groups of men. We must substitute for the stereotyped parties temporary organizations with limited objects.

"In a general way it may be said that party-convention has wrested from the citizens the weapon of moral constraint, and has turned it against them.
Those who claim to represent the party have but to dangle before them the exigencies of the party to gain possession of their wills, as by a mesmerist's pass.
The people give their adhesion, as soon as the party is in question, to acts which they would otherwise have condemned. They vote meekly for a yellow dog because it wears the collar of the party. They witness the disorders of public life unmoved because these disorders are covered by the flag of their party.

YOU DO NOT WANT LOSSES

Vaccinate before the disease makes its appearance. Fall time and Spring time are the danger periods. The regular meeting of the Ladies Aid of the Presbyterian Church will be held in the Church Hall, on Friday, Sept. 27th, at 3.30 o'clock.

As the result of the Child Welfare Tag Day last Saturday the sum of $110.88 was forwarded to the Social Service League by the ladies who had the good work in hand.

Alberta has a subnormal climate. Mr. Page of Pine Lake brought in some watermelons for sale last week end. Home grown, although this week's sample of the weather doesn't lead one to think so.

Mrs. W. M. Jones, of Waskasoo, handed in three potatoes last week weighing over 6 pounds, or over two pounds each. They are the Beauty of Hebron variety, and hard to beat. They head the list so far.

The bowling green on the city square has not been so busy this week on account of the weather, but with the return of the sun bowlers will still be seen enjoying the trundling of the woods. Come down and have a game.

M. P. McCall, residing on the Edmonton trail near the A.C.R., lost a young heifer by lightning on Friday night last. It was sleeping near the wire fences in the storm, and its nose was touching the wire. Some hay was also set on fire, but Mr. Anderson and Mr. McCall put it out.

The rummage sale at the Parish Hall is to be the greatest ever held in the city. It is surprising what things there will be for sale, and if we had to tell you of them all we would need a whole page. Look in on Friday afternoon, October 4th, and see what you want. It's sure to be there.

The members of the congregation of St. Luke's Church spent a very enjoyable social evening at the Parish Hall on Friday. Their ticket costing 50c, admits you to both supper and the entertainment by the choir, under whose auspices Dr. McRae will give the above address. Everybody likes a chicken supper, and everybody ought to be interested in the education of the boys and girls.

"Education after the war," will be the subject of an address by Dr. McRae next Monday evening in the Presbyterian Church. Your ticket costing 50c, admits you to both supper and the entertainment by the choir, under whose auspices Dr. McRae will give the above address. Everybody likes a chicken supper, and everybody ought to be interested in the education of the boys and girls.

The Women's Institute have closed their tea room owing to the shortage of food and in accordance with the orders of the Food Controller that now no unnecessary meals be served. In order to raise money for their various war funds they have decided to have an auction sale on the afternoon of Thursday, October 31st, to be followed in the evening by a Halloween dance. The war funds benefited by this will be the Red Cross, Prisoners of War, and Belgian Relief.

The many friends of Miss Gertrude Smith will be glad to learn that she has fully recovered from the shock occasioned by the unannounced visit of the choir of the Methodist church to her home on Tuesday evening when, to show their esteem of this very faithful and popular member of the choir, they presented her with an ivory clock. Miss Smith is about to leave Red Deer to take charge of a school near Acme, and by her removal, the Methodist church choir is losing a contralto who has done very faithful and excellent work for a period of five years or more. She will be greatly missed. The presentation was made by Mr. J. B. Welton, the organist and choirmaster, and Miss Smith responded. During the evening, election of officers for the coming year took place with the following result: President—Mrs. C. D. Locke. Vice-President—Mrs. O. W. Thorne. Sec'y-Treas—Miss M. McLaughlin. Executive Committee—Mr. R. J. Taggart and Dr. Long.

Red Cross work drive, Thursday and Friday, September 25 and 27.

The regular meeting of the W.C.T.U. will be held on Friday afternoon at 2.30 in the parlor of the Methodist Church.

The Red Deer Trading Co. are shipping iron and junk next Friday and Saturday, September 27th and 28th. They offer $1.00 a ton over the regular price for iron loaded by customers direct on the car.

Another of the efforts for which the Salvation is widely noted has been arranged for in the shape of the Harvest Festival effort. Preparations are on foot to make the occasion one of great success in the city. A series of appropriate meetings is being organized by the local corps which promises to be of special interest and attraction. We shall be able to give more detailed information with respect to the programme in a later issue. The good work that this organization has carried through, and the success which has attended their dealings with the more evictant and forlorn, and their endeavors to bring comfort and cheer to the men at the front, commands the appreciation of all who sympathize with the spiritual and moral needs of the people. No doubt many will avail themselves of this opportunity to show their confidence in such praiseworthy effort.

A brisk rubbing with Prof. Parker's Eureka Rubbing Oil will cure lame back. The skin will immediately absorb the oil and it will penetrate the tissues and bring speedily relief. Try it and be convinced. As the oil sinks in the pain comes out and there are ample grounds for saying that its touch is magical, as it is.—Prof. Parker, 56, Second Street, South.

THE BOY AT THE FRONT

He Gave All—His Mother, His Home

Out 'mid bursting shell and battle's roar; out in the awful abyss of a man-made hell; in a strange land, thousands of miles from home, a brave Canadian mother's son is, this minute fighting, bleeding, dying—enduring all the agonies of this terrible conflict that the world may be free. There, amid the cheers of our men, the maddening curses of a savage foe, the cries of the stricken and the wails of the dying, his mind goes back to Canada, to the land he loved so well; to a dear old mother's home, to the comforts he found there. He sees her bent in longing for her boy "Over There," and his heart aches to comfort her with a letter of good cheer. Hear him, in a voice with anguish filled, calling, pleading, praying for those for whom he fights, to furnish him with the comforts that they themselves would want.

We carry to YOU this plea from far across the sea, from your loved ones "Over There," that they may have a few of the comforts that YOU daily enjoy.

WHAT WILL YOU GIVE TO KEEP HIM SMILING?
